AUGS/IUGA

SCIENTIFIC MEETING
JULY 22-26, 2014

ONSITE PROGRAM
WWW.AUGS-IUGA2014.ORG
AMS is three years into the 522 postmarket surveillance study of the MiniArc™
Single-Incision Sling System, as requested by the FDA.

At 12 month follow-up in the 522 study, the MiniArc Single-Incision Sling System was found to be non-inferior to the Monarc™ Subfascial Hammock.¹

Two-year data will be presented this year at AUGS/IUGA in July 2014.

We are committed to quality products that restore patient self-confidence and quality of life. We are women’s health.

1. Schellart RP, et al. A randomized comparison of single incision mid-urethral sling (MiniArc™) and transobturator mid-urethral sling (Monarc™) in women with stress urinary incontinence. Urogynecol J. 2013;24 (1 suppl). [IUGA abstract 140]

Summary of Warnings, Precautions and Contraindications for SUI Repair Systems

As with any surgical procedure, inherent risks are present. Although rare, some of the most severe risks with sling procedures include infection, erosion, and vessel or urethra perforation. Some of the most common risks include urinary tract infections, urge symptoms and urinary retention. Do not perform this procedure on pregnant patients.

Prior to using these devices, please review the Instructions for Use for a complete listing of indications, contraindications, warnings, precautions and potential adverse events. This document is written for professional medical audiences. Contact AMS for lay publications. AMS periodically updates product literature. If you have questions regarding the currency of this information, please contact AMS.

Do not undergo this surgery if you are pregnant or know you have sensitivity or allergy to polypropylene mesh products. If you are planning future pregnancies, you should consult with your physician as you may again become incontinent as future pregnancies may make ineffective the effects of the surgical procedure.

Dear colleagues and friends,

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to Washington, DC, the capital of the United States and the first ever joint meeting between the American Urogynecologic Society (AUGS), and the International Urogynecological Association (IUGA).

This is undoubtedly the premier urogynecologic meeting of the year, with a unique blend of stimulating and controversial scientific presentations and select social activities.

Our Program Committee Chairs, Ranee Thakar, (IUGA), and Halina Zyczynski (AUGS), along with the Program Committee, Abstract Review Committee and the Workshop Subcommittee have prepared a superb agenda, including numerous practical workshops, scientific oral presentations sessions, and debates to update each attendees’ knowledge of contemporary Urogynecology.

As pelvic surgeons, we are keenly aware of the transition in surgical approaches we are currently witnessing. We are certain that much of the data to be presented will provide us with guidance in our future surgical decision making. This meeting is indeed timely.

We want to thank all who submitted abstracts for this meeting. It is the presentation of our members’ individual work that continually raises the scientific bar at each of our meetings. We encourage all attendees to participate in the scientific sessions and visit the poster area where some of the most interesting discussions will take place.

We also want to thank our industry sponsors and exhibitors for participating in this exciting, first ever joint meeting. Your support allows us to hold the highest quality meetings in the best venues around the US and world. We encourage all attendees to visit the exhibit area and learn what new products and services are available for our patients.

While at the exhibit area, please take the time to visit the AUGS booth, as well as the IUGA booth — where you can meet the people who allow both societies to achieve their missions: the staff of each organization. Also, find out what new programs and resources are available for you through AUGS and IUGA.

Washington, DC is a great tourism destination. There is plenty to do and see while we are here and we encourage you to spend a few extra days to appreciate all that DC and the surrounding area has to offer.

You will be very glad you took the time to attend the AUGS/IUGA 2014 Scientific Meeting. We look forward to personally greeting you while here.

It’s hard to believe such a little thing could make such a big difference. Talk about a Butterfly effect.”

- Renee, age 54

Introducing Butterfly®
A new kind of discreet protection for ABL.

ABL is a surprisingly common problem — affecting tens of millions of women and men, including 1 in 5 women over the age of 40 and a similar percentage of men. For 90%, leakage is mild to moderate. Both women and men report that even mild leakage can be bothersome.

Butterfly Body Liners are a totally new product for light to moderate ABL. Butterfly fits comfortably and discreetly in the buttocks, providing secure protection for accidental bowel leakage (ABL). Consumer studies show that Butterfly users feel more confident and protected throughout their day — in fact 90% of users report that Butterfly protects them from ABL. That’s because with its absorbent core, odor shield and stay-fast wings, Butterfly adheres securely and invisibly in the buttocks, giving those with ABL a new kind of protection they can count on.

Registration is now closed.

A team of AUGS and IUGA fellows under the supervision of Dr. Robert Gutman designed this course to provide fellows with an opportunity to review pelvic anatomy, learn new surgical techniques and enhance their surgical skills.

Morning Session
Fellows will be split in half (Group A and B) for the two morning sessions.

Session 1: Dynamic anatomy lecture followed by a clay lab hands-on simulation of pelvic anatomy in which participants construct a female pelvis with corresponding muscular and connective tissue support structures and nerves.

Session 2: A total of six lab stations with core faculty providing an in depth educational review of relevant anatomy using prosections and models. Every participant will visit all six stations.

The Foundation for International Urogynecological Assistance has been established as a registered charity in the US for scientific and educational purposes.

The first activity of FIUGA is a project to build a center of excellence in urogynecology for West Africa. This is being undertaken with the University of Ghana in Accra. IUGA members have been invited to volunteer their time and several placements have occurred. The foundation’s involvement will help with the creation of a urogynecology/female pelvic medicine post-residency training program. If you are interested in a two-week placement in this program, please contact: info@iuga.org.

The foundation will be soliciting financial support from IUGA members, industry and other organizations. These donations will be tax deductible at this time for US residents. The possibility of providing tax deduction receipts in other countries is being investigated.

The activities of the foundation can include:

- Education, both entry to the specialty and continuing;
- Research that advances the understanding of urogynecological issues and treatment of female pelvic floor disorders;
- Patient education;
- Scholarships for the study of the specialty of urogynecology; and,
- The development of urogynecology in countries around the world.

For more information about developments with FIUGA, please visit the foundation’s website at www.FIUGA.org

Indications
The Altis Single Incision, Aris® Transobturator and Supris® Retropubic Sling Systems are indicated for the treatment of female stress urinary incontinence (SUI) resulting from urethral hypermobility and/or intrinsic sphincter deficiency (ISD).

Contraindications
It is the responsibility of the surgeon to advise the prospective patients or their representatives, prior to surgery, of the contraindications associated with the use of the Altis, Aris or Supris slings.

Warnings and Precautions
It is the responsibility of the surgeon to advise the prospective patients or their representatives, prior to surgery, of the possible warnings and precautions associated with the use of this product and the associated surgical risks. Altis, Aris and Supris Sling Systems should only be used by surgeons who are qualified to perform this type of surgery, have experience in the surgical treatment of SUI and who are familiar with the use of non-absorbable mesh and the specific insertion technique. The patient should be informed that any future pregnancy may negate the benefits of this surgical procedure and the patient may become incontinent again. Patients should immediately report any onset of bleeding, pain, vaginal discharge or sign of infection that occurs at any time.

Adverse Effects
Potential adverse reactions are those associated with surgery using implantable synthetic mesh materials. As with all foreign bodies, the Altis, Aris, Supris sling is likely to exacerbate any existing infection. Transitory local irritation at the wound site and a foreign body response may occur. There is also the risk of complete failure of the procedure resulting in continued incontinence due to incomplete support or overactive bladder. The occurrence of these events may require partial or complete removal of the sling. Patients should be monitored regularly after the device has been implanted for immediate treatment of any adverse reaction.

See the device manual for detailed information regarding the implant procedure, warnings /precautions, adverse reactions, prior to using this product. For further information, call Coloplast Corp at 1-800-258-3476 and/or consult the company website at www.coloplast.us.
